

Ready for your close-up?

Graduating from your BFA comes with its fair share of joy and heartache. Sure, you've put down your pencil and left those pesky finals behind you, but what comes next? How do you bridge the gap between now and booking your first commercial? Or better yet, your first feature film?

Our experts at Backstage have teamed up with industry professionals at Northwestern University to bring you the mother of all screen acting courses, 'Screenwise: The On-Camera Essentials.' This course features hours of hands-on experience and timeless wisdom from well-known industry experts. From script analysis to advanced audition techniques, we guarantee that you will walk away with the tools to succeed.

Screenwise is 100% online, and students can access course material at any time. Upon completion, you'll walk away with a certificate, invaluable resume material, and industry connections that will last a lifetime.

Sign up today and watch your career take flight.

aand... action!